NEWSLETTER #2
APRIL 1, 2021

Welcome,

This newsletter initiative is sponsored by USAID through the Afghanistan Competitiveness of Export- Oriented Businesses Activity (ACEBA) and implemented by Gem Hunters Corporation, whereby Afghans in the gemstone industry can present their products to the worldwide market. Buyers can contact Afghan sellers directly to negotiate pricing and arrange shipping and payment.

Disclaimer: This newsletter is for the purpose of providing information and contacts only. USAID, ACEBA, and Gem Hunters Corporation are not and will not be involved in any transactions. Transactions are completely and strictly up to buyers and sellers, including shipping and payment of goods, and payment of duties, taxes and fees to Afghan government agencies and those in the buyer's country (destination). Neither USAID nor Gem Hunters are responsible for the quality, grade or carat weight of stones etc. and independent arrangements must be made between buyers and sellers.

Message from Gary Bowersox

Dear Reader:

For over seven thousand years the Afghanistan gemstone industry has expanded in the value and number of gemstones produced. Today a private gemstone industry continues to flourish even under the pressure of the government, the Taliban and Covid-19. One can find Afghanistan gemstones in all the world's major markets including North and South America, Europe, Asia, the Middle East and in the Gulf States.

The Gemstone industry in Afghanistan today is supported by private families, village people, village leaders, police and government officials. Thousands of people are involved and supporting themselves and their families with funds provided by the gemstone industry. The Afghanistan government, USAID and other organizations have started programs to advance the Gemstone Industry of Afghanistan. USAID with DAI is considering sponsoring a private showing/sale during either June or July in Dubai for Afghanistan sellers and international buyers. For additional information on the proposed showing/sale Email MrGary77@aol.com.

Since our fist newsletter on March 1, 2021, we have added educational information such as articles and maps on the Afghanistan mining areas and additional products to “MrGary’s Listings” from new sellers.

The goal of this Newsletter is to assist in providing world gem industry buyers and other interested parties with an introduction through photos, products and contact information of Afghans who desire to sell their gem industry products. This is your opportunity to connect with Afghans on a personal basis and purchase their products.

If you have not signed up for our monthly newsletters, you can join our currently small community for FREE by signing up at <http://eepurl.com/b4FQI9>

WORLD EMERALD UPDATE

The Emerald Mines of the Panjshir Valley, Afghanistan

By Gary Bowersox

In the first century A.D., Pliny, writing in the Natural History, referred to the occurrence of "emargabul", a Latin term referring to emerald and other green stones in the vicinity of Bactria, the geographic area including present day Afghanistan. In fact, the presence of "emeralds" reportedly come from this region for thousands of years. Afghanistan's Panjshir Valley, an hour drive north of the capital city Kabul, now has commercial emerald production. Such known production only commenced in the early 1980s and has primarily been conducted by Afghan enterprises and individuals much of which is based on historic customary, tribal and family-based operations.

Large, dark green crystals have been discovered by local Afghans in hundreds of tons and profits throughout the valley. Intense removal and sale of these emeralds served to financially support the activities of the Mujahideen ("freedom fighters") during the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan (1979-89). Since that time the emeralds mined have continued to provide an internet, entrepreneurial, business opportunity for local Afghans. Emerald mining in Afghanistan has never been formalized; no legal licensing of emerald mines is known to be in place. Nonetheless, emerald production conducted by local Afghans generates an estimated $10 million each year; revenues generated are not formally taxed.

Ruby Mines Jegdalek, Afghanistan

RUBY AND SAPPHIRE FROM JEGDALEK, AFGHANISTAN

By Gary W. Bowersox, Eugene E. Foord, Brendan M. Laurs,
James E. Shigley, and Christopher P. Smith

This study provides detailed mining and gemological information on the Jegdalek deposits, in east-central Afghanistan, which is hosted by elongate beds of corundum-bearing marble. Some facet-grade ruby has been recovered, but most of the material consists of semitransparent pink sapphire of cabochon or carving quality. The most common internal features are dense concentrations of holed and embolized fracture planes and lamellar twin planes. Color zoning is common, and calcite, apatite, zircon, titanite, iron sulfide minerals, graphite, rutile, aluminum hydroxide, and other minerals are also present in some samples. Although the reserves appear to be large, future potential will depend on the establishment of a stable government and the introduction of modern mining and exploitation techniques.

The gem mines of Afghanistan are some of the oldest in the world. The lapis lazuli mines at Sar-i-Sang, in the Badkhashan region, have been worked for at least 6,500 years (see, e.g., Wyart et al., 1981). Today, Afghanistan continues to be an important source of various gem minerals—including emerald, ruby, sapphire, aquamarine, tourmaline, and spinel (see, e.g., Bowersox and Chamberlain, 1998). Yet relatively little is known about many of the gem localities.

This article reports on the only known source of ruby in Afghanistan: the Jegdalek region. A historical review, the geology, mining methods, and current production of gem corundum (figure 1) from Jegdalek are given below, together with the results of our research on the gemological properties of this material.

BACKGROUND

Although most of the records of the Ministry of Mines and Industry have been destroyed by the rocket attacks and bombs that have plagued Kabul since 1979, we were able to glean a fair amount of information from the literature. The geographic location of Afghanistan among several powerful neighbors (i.e., China, Iran, Pakistan, Uzbekistan, Tajikistan, and Turkmenistan; figure 2) has resulted in a long history of turmoil. Additionally, invasions by the Greeks (327 BC), Mongols (1227), British (1838–1919), and Russians (1979–1988), among others, destroyed and/or displaced portions of the Afghan population. However, these major invasions also influenced gem exploration and production, as gems were sought to trade for weapons. In addition, throughout history, Afghan mining areas have been the objects of tribal wars and banditry (see, e.g., Wood, 1841). In 1992, the senior author experienced nightly rocket attacks when he visited the ruby mining area.

The Jegdalek mines have been worked for more than 700 years. During the 1200s, wealthy Muhammadan merchants sold rubies to Kublai Khan and other famous historical fig-
